Meet Pramila Behera, A Skilled Weaver Of Traditional Crafts

A 70-Year-Old Artisan in Keonjhar Reclaimed Her Craft and Independence

As a skilled worker of traditional crafts, Pramila has relied on her intricate handwork to support herself despite her advanced age.

However, as her eyesight deteriorated over time, her ability to create these detailed pieces diminished, directly impacting her productivity and income. Her financial constraints prevented her from seeking proper eye care, leaving her squinting and struggling as she still carried on with her work.

With Good Vision Glasses on, her vision became crystal clear and finally she was able to focus on her work. With the support of Care Netram, Pramila regained her independence and can now continue her beloved craft.

Supporting Small Businesses In Rural India

Affordable Eye Care Transforms a Couple's Small Business in Keonjhar

Purna Chandra Singh, 70, and Kunilata Singh, 61, a dedicated couple from Keonjhar, found their small snack business struggling due to deteriorating vision. Their ability to read, prepare snacks, and handle money had become increasingly difficult, directly impacting their livelihood.

Without timely eye care and vision supporting glasses, their vision could have further deteriorated. It could leave them blind and eventually make them dependent on others.

Purna and Kunilata received Good Vision glasses at an affordable price. With their new glasses, they can now effortlessly manage their daily tasks. Their improved vision has not only boosted their work efficiency but also restored their confidence.

Glasses of Hope

Care Netram reaches remote villages like Pokar Toli with essential eye care services.

In the quiet village of Pokar Toli in Ranchi, Lepu Tigga, aged 70, and Budhani Tigga, aged 55, faced daily challenges due to their poor vision. As a husband and wife deeply rooted in their community, they struggled to recognize people from afar and perform household chores without difficulty.

To their relief, they were provided with Good Vision glasses tailored for their distance vision needs at Care Netram community eye camp. The moment Lepu and Budhani put on their new glasses, a world of clarity unfolded before them. They could now see faces clearly from a distance and manage their household tasks with ease.
